SC appoints judges for special courts to try coal scam cases

ASHISH TRIPATHI
NEW DELHI, DHNS

The Supreme Court on Monday nominated two Judges Arun Bhardwaj and Sanjay Bansal to preside over two special courts to try 41 coal block allocation scam cases here.

A bench of Chief Justice S A Bobde and Justices A S Bopanna and V Ramasubramanian allowed a plea by special public prosecutor R S Cheema to appoint two special courts for disposal of the matters in question since they are about 41 in numbers.

The court went through five names of judges of Delhi Higher Judicial Service to nominate two among them on the basis of a letter received from the Registrar General of Delhi High Court. Special Judge Bharat Parashar who presided over the court to try coal scam cases, has already completed six years on the post since his appointment on August 19, 2014.

Last month, the top court has asked the Chief Justice, Delhi HC to send names of five judges.
